

An old friend is coming to perform in the Studio in January, Alison Skilbeck, Tim Hardy's wife, who performed Galileo a few years ago in the Studio.

Alison has a CV as long as your arm - Edinburgh Festival, The Archers, Sherlock Holmes, Miss Marple, Doctor Who and more theatrical productions than there is space to list.

In her own one-woman comedy drama, Are There More of You? Alison Skilbeck tells the linked tales of four women reaching out in the dark, revealing what lies behind the brave faces of Claire, Sophia, Sara and Sam. Painful, scary and hilarious by turns, with only a SW 11 postcode in common, the stories chart each wildly different character's search for love and happiness.

"Brilliantly observed, richly comic characters all played to perfection. A wonderful evening."

Alan Ayckbourn

Words alone do not adequately describe this fascinating show, click this link to fully appreciate it: <https://vimeo.com/65734591>

Are There More of You? Will be performed by Alison in the Javea Players Studio Theatre from

22nd - 27th of January at 8pm.

Tickets 12€ are available on our web site www.javeaplayers.com any booking problem email boxoffice@javeaplayers.com

After the performance Alison will hold a "Question & Answer" session.

We have arranged that La Cocina will open especially to offer you a pre-theatre dinner from 6 pm each night. They offer a special two course menu for 16€ or 19€ for 3 courses plus ½ bottle of wine per person for both options.

See the menu at www.lacocinajavea.com and click Javea Players. Dinner bookings 96 579 5140.

We look forward to welcoming you.
The Javea Players